

PRIVACY POLICY

Once you accept the LICENSE AGREEMENT AND THE TERMS OF SERVICE FOR VISIONDATWEB SUBSCRIBER "APPLICATION OF CLINICAL RECORDS MANAGEMENT AND POINT OF SALE" you accept the use of your data in accordance with the privacy policies of VisionDatWeb. This policy affects VisionDat's products, services and Internet sites around the world (generally referred to as VisionDat's "services"). Personal information and other data that we collect.

Personal information

VisionDat stores personal information that is provided by subscribers that allows you to identify them personally, such as: name, email address, billing information or other data that VisionDat may require. Registration to VisionDatWeb allows you to access other VisionDat products and services. You agree that any registration information you provide to VisionDat will be accurate, true and current.

VisionDat Subscriber Account

Subscribers can access some of our services by registering to obtain a VisionDat account and providing us with some personal information (usually the name, email address and password), in addition to the data required to open a subscriber account. This information is used to authenticate the identity of subscribers when accessing VisionDat services and thus protect their accounts from unauthorized access. We may share personal information between our different services to improve them and personalize the contents. We will not share account information with anyone other than VisionDat, except as provided in the Privacy Policy. You can edit or cancel your VisionDat account at any time through the configuration of your Subscriber account.

Use of information

By downloading the application you consent to the handling and use of personal information provided in the "Clinical Records and Point of Sale Application" By sharing anonymous data means that you agree to share data of statistical interest for the health systems, Educational institutions and private bodies. These data are related to ailments, clinical history and diagnoses of anonymous patients that are useful to determine the epidemiology in different geographic areas and population groups, in order to study their distribution, frequency, determinants, relationships, predictions and control of the Factors related to health and visual diseases. Data retrieved on the VisionDatWeb server will be periodically posted and posted on www.VisionDat.com and on those where VisionDat decides they are suitable.

With your information the services you have requested are provided, it may also be used in reviews, research and analysis to put into operation and improve VisionDat technologies and services. We may also share information with third parties in certain circumstances, such as legal processes or situations to prevent fraud or imminent damage, and to ensure the safety of our network and our services. VisionDat processes personal information on our servers in the United States of America and in other countries. In some cases, we process personal information on a server located outside the subscriber's country. When the subscriber uses our products and services, we indicate what data we collect, why we do it and how we protect that information.

You agree to use the Services solely for the purposes set forth in (a) the Terms and (b) you agree to comply with any applicable laws or regulations or any practices or guidelines accepted in the relevant jurisdictions.

IP address

All computers connected to the Internet are assigned a unique number called the IP address (Internet Protocol). Because these numbers are usually assigned to blocks by country, an IP address could be used to identify the country from which a computer is connected to the Internet.

Server logs

Like most Web pages, our servers automatically record the requests that are made when users visit our Web pages. These "server logs" include your web request, IP address, browser type, browser language, date and time of your request and one or more cookies that uniquely identify your browser.

Acceptance of License Agreement, Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.

You declare that you have read, understood and accepted the terms of this LICENSE AGREEMENT, SERVICE CONDITIONS AND PRIVACY POLICY FOR THE VISIONDATWEB SERVICE SUBSCRIBER "CLINICAL RECORDS MANAGEMENT APPLICATION AND POINT OF SALE" prior to installation of the VisionDatWeb application